Director's Notes

This musical is about the transformational power of kindness. If there is one thing we need more of in our fast-paced, tech-savvy world, it's kindness. I love that this version of Rodger's and Hammerstein's Cinderella (Broadway, 2013) isn't set in a picture-perfect fairy-tale world. The spine of the story is the classic rags-to-riches one we all know. However, this book immediately drew me in with the backdrop of a country in conflict and dynamic characters that are willing to risk everything for what is right and true. I admire their willingness to listen, learn, and lend a hand.

I am constantly in awe of the genuine kindness of the students and families in this department. The care and compassion you extend to each other, whether as close friends or newcomers, is inspiring. While I enjoy the magical moments of this production (and hope you do, too!), it's the power of simple, everyday acts of kindness that we should remember. As Marie tells us, "impossible things are happening every day!"

As our season of classical magic comes to a close, we would like to thank you for your patronage. Stay tuned for next season's titles, to be announced in late May!

~ Lauren Tobiason
